Howto A StepbyStep Guide

- 1 Prepare your fabric Cut a piece of Aida cloth slightly larger than your pattern Use your embroidery hoop to secure the fabric ensuring its taut but not stretched excessively
- 2 Transfer your pattern There are several methods for transferring patterns including using watersoluble pens graphite paper or even printing directly onto the fabric using special ink
- 3 Start stitching Begin with a small section of your design The key to corredino is consistency Maintain even stitch tension and ensure your crosses are all the same size and direction Pay close attention to the patterns shading the more carefully you work the more defined your result will be
- 4 Stitch direction Generally its recommended to maintain consistency in your stitch direction eg all stitches slanted to the top right This creates a smooth uniform surface
- 5 Color changes When changing colors secure the end of the old thread and begin the new thread on the back ensuring no loose ends are visible on the front
- 6 Finishing Once your stitching is complete carefully remove the fabric from the hoop Trim any loose ends on the back and gently wash your piece if desired to remove any water soluble marking pen
